

CONSTITUENT CHRONOLOGIES

The following chronologies attempt to illustrate the role of the constituents most frequently alleged to be harmful to human health. It is hoped that the chronologies enable counsel to understand the emphasis and, in many cases, de-emphasis on a constituent as it pertains to the smoking and health controversy.

Because of the volume of literature on each constituent or group of constituents, it is important to continue the effort and to maintain a current awareness in the area of constituent research. Accordingly, it will be necessary to update the chronologies as other significant studies are identified. Therefore, periodic updates will be provided when appropriate.
